Panelists

Jeff Schween at Compass is one of our regions most sought out real estate agents due not only to his 30 years of serving clients but what he is doing to help remake our community. He has completed over 750 transactions, mostly in Santa Rosa, and also pens a weekly column for The Press Democrat that highlights trends within our marketplace. The North Bay Business Journal has had him present on multiple panels over the last year on property values and re-building homes in our community. Jeff has vast experience in selling lots in our area since the fires and represents 6 different builders who are all highly focused on delivering innovative, forward thinking new homes in Fountaingrove and the surrounding Northeast Santa Rosa area. Also, as members of our club, he and his bride, Tracey, are building their new home at 3940 Skyfarm – resting gently above the 5th green and 6th tee box. Jeff truly understands the process of designing + building and guides his clients from the point of not only selecting the right lot – and what it's inherent value is - to build on but delivering their keys to them in the end after caring for them through the entire process where they will finally be able to call Fountaingrove their home.

URBAN BUILDING
WORKSHOP

Kevin Skiles – Architect/Builder and President of the Urban Building Workshop - has been designing and building custom homes throughout the North Bay region for nearly 20 years. With a commitment to quality and a focus on elegant design, his company has a track record of completing timeless homes. Working with homeowners over the last year, he and his team created 30 unique designs and initiated 21 new builds in Fountaingrove and Quietwater. Kevin has built out his team of skilled craftsman to not only build a better, safer more beautiful residence, but to make the process smooth and efficient as the Urban Building Workshop is Fountaingrove's Premier builder of fine homes

Dustin Baxter was born and Raised in the Santa Rosa area and is heavily vested in the positive growth of the local communities. Precision Builders was founded by Dustin and Sean McFarland who is also a Santa Rosa native. The October 2017 wildfires were a difficult time for our families, friends, clients and community. We have taken a very proactive role in assisting to bring our community back and provide the necessary services along the way for many that have suffered a loss. Together Dustin and Sean have over 40 years of successful construction experience in the local communities.

True to our name, Precision Builders Corporation is a full scale general contractor that aims to set the standard for excellence by leveraging our years of experience, knowledge and personal relationships within the construction industry. Accuracy. Passion. Expertise. This is the core of Precision Builders Corporation's philosophy and we work hard to create an extraordinary customer experience with each project we do.

Trust. Honesty. Integrity. This is the foundation of every successful project, and we experience true partnership with all of our clients, architects, designers, suppliers and subcontractors from start to finish. Without this, we cannot succeed at what we do.
